M'ADAM ABSENT. ANNIE GOES BACK ON EAMES. A SWINDLER NABBED.

Philipsen's Testimony Seems to Have Made Him Ill.

Fr. Hanley Had Some Dealings with Philipsen, Too.

Lawyer Dunn Also Had Some Influence in the Matter of Market Stands.

For the first time since the beginning of the investigation by the Commissioners of Accounts into the allotment of stands in the new West Washington Market Chief Clerk Graham MoAdam, of the Market Bureau, was absent

He has been a constant attendant at the sions of the Commissioners, and has been greatly worn and worried by the proceedings, which were continually threatening an attack upon his good name and the good name of his associates in the Bureau.

After the revelations of Tuesday's session, when testimony was given to the effect that Charles Philipsen had paid Mr. McAdam $3,000 for stand privileges, the latter's health is reported to have given way, and he has taken to his bed, where he now is, at his residence, 308 West Twentieth street.

John H. Hanley, of the firm of John H. Hanley & Co., the other member of which is George Hanley, his brother, was the first witness this propring.

Hanley & Co., the other member of which is George Hanley, his brother, was the first witness this morning.

He testified that the firm had three stands in the old market and was allotted five in the new. They were first located in Grace avenue and desired a different location.

Charles Philipsen offered his services to secure the change and went with the witness to the Market Bureau. They met Chief Clerk McAdam, but he was busy and they had no opportunity to consult with him.

Witness said that after this he dropped Philipsen and enlisted the services of Lawyer James Dunn, of the Stewart Building, in his behalf.

Mr. Dunn saw Supt. Kelso and the change of location desired was effected.

Mr. Hanley stated positively that he had paid nothing to anyone, not even his lawyer paid nothing to anyone, not when this change.

When, however, he was asked if his brother had paid anything for this service, or had ever talked with him concerning the payment of money, the witness's memory, theretofore very good, became extremely bad. He 'thought" and "guessed" and "couldn't amember."

"thought" and "guessed" and "couldn't remember."
He did remember, however, that he had a conversation with Philipsen regarding the payment of money for stands, but could not recollect the details or drift of the talk.

Mr. Coudert here presented to the Commissioners a letter from Clerk of Markets Henry Wolfman, now in Believue Hospita!, and a certificate from his physician, Dr. Lienry V. Wildman, regarding his condition.

The letter was addressed to Comptroller Myers, and was of a nervous and flighty character. In it Wolfman says he has been wilfifed and abused in the investigation, and that he desires to testify and will attend before the Commissioners even at the risk of his life if necessary. If his physician will not allow him to leave the hospital he desires the Commissioners to come to him and cross examine him. ommissioners to come to him and cross ine him. Wildman's certificate is to the effect

Dr. Wildman's certificate is to the effect that Woltman's condition is such as to preclude the possibility of his examination.

Mr. Nicoll objected to the reception of the letter and the certificate as a part of the record. If Mr. Woltman is to defend himself he should do it under oath and not by letters. He suggested that the Commissioners appoint a reputable physician to examine Woltman and report as to his condition, whether or not be can be examined.

William H. Haynes, a Jerseyman, had two stands in the old market, but was unable to get more than one in the new.

stands in the old market, but was unable to get more than one in the new.

He testified that he saked Chief Clerk Mc-Adam if the stories regarding the payment of money for stand privileges in the new market had any foundation, and Mr. McAdam scouted the idea as preposterous. Witness said that Mr. McAdam was the only man in the Bureau of Markets who had treated him in a gentlemanly manner.

Elisha G. Eldridge has two stands in the market. He was absent from the State when they were allotted to him and did not know whether anything was paid for the privilege or not. If anybody paid it must have been his partner, Henry F. Carpenter, of Mariborough, Ulster County.

Mr. Carpenter will be subposneed, but it is not though he will put in an appearance.

mr. Nicoll suggested that he would probably call Chief Clerk McAdam as a witness to morrow, whereupon his brother objected and said that he did not wish his brother to go on the stand until the prosecution is completed, when Mr. McAdam and Comptroller go on the stand until the prosecution is completed, when Mr. McAdam and Comptroller Myers will explain their connection with the allotment of stands.

Lawyer Mitchell said that he would advise Mr. McAdam to answer no questions based on Assistant Corporation Counsel Wickes's testimony and notified Mr. Nicoll that he should instruct the witness to refuse to answer all of his questions not strictly within the rules of evidence.

Mr. Nicoll objected to making any agreement that Mr. McAdam should be the last witness. He said that he is working at several clues, and shall hold it his right to present evidence regarding them at any time it shall develop, no matter whether Mr. McAdam has been examined or not.

Commissioner Holahan said that this right will certainly be reserved. There are a dozen men represented to be standholders in the new market whose existence cannot be proven and whom the Commissioners think are myths. They hope yet to show for whose benefit these stands were granted.

John Gallacher who holds a stand and one-half in the new market, said that he interested United States Internal Revenue Collector John A. Sullivan in his behalf.

This witness had heard a great many marketmen talk about being compelled to pay money for their stand privileges.

PASTOR SMITH CAME HERE.

Boston's Missing Dominic Registered at the Grand Union Hotel on Monday.

The police are satisfied that the missing Rev. Charles Hudson Smith, of Boston, has been in this city since his disappearance last Saturday, and think he probably is on his way Westward or has turned his face towards Europe.

Europe.

When he was missed from his parsonage, in Akron street, Boston, on Saturday, it was so sudden and mysterious that his friends and parishioners jumped to the conclusion that he was demented and had committed suride.

Investigation by the police here shows, however, that on Monday last, ten days after the young clergyman had left Boston, he was in this city and put up at the Grand Bnion Hotel, for on the registry of that hoselry for that date appears the entry, "C. J. Smith, Boston."

On the following day this guest left the hotel Westward-bound, he said, and there all trace of Boston's clergyman ends.

The police believe that Mr. Smith absented himself from motives which can be proved upon close inspection in his congregation or elsewhere in Boston.

THE S. P. C. C.'S PRESIDENT LED THE AT-TACK UPON THE LATTER.

When Hankinson Was Discharged He Sided with Him and Got Him Reinstated-Indignant Members of the Autmale' Sectety Threaten to Make Things Warm for the Board of Managers.

The latest developments in the unpleasantness in the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, by which Henry Bergh has been ousted from the Presidency, indicate that the fight, which was led by Commo dore Elbridge T. Gerry, was a much more serious affair than was at first believed.

The members of the Society, who number ver five nundred, are boiling with indigna tion over the action taken by the Board of Managers, for Mr. Bergh was a general favorite, and every one was satisfied with his management of the Society, and they now threaten to make things very warm for the Board.

Several of them have gone so far as to say that they will turn out the whole of the present Board and elect a new one.

Most of the members who attended the meeting last Monday night thought they had carried the day for Mr. Bergh, for several motions made by Mr. Gerry were voted down, and they were smazed when they heard that the President had resigned.

As Mr. Bergh, and vesterday, however, he

As Mr. Bergh aid yesterday, however, he resigned in the interest of harmony, and in the hope of preventing any dissensions in the management of the Society on the Bergh side significant of the Society of th imposed after Hankinson had been warned that he must stop it.

Hankinson, they claim, was insolent, and several times when Mr. Bergh found fault with him, he took off his shield and offered to give it up. Mr. Bergh finally accepted it. He then went to Mr. Gerry, who had him reinstated, Mr. Bergh acquiescing in the action of the Executive Committee.

In the meeting Monday night Mr. Gerry made a bitter attack on Mr. Bergh, charging him with bullying his inferiors, of committing arbitrary and unlawful acts and of resorting to underhand means of securing sup-ting arbitrary and unlawful acts and of resorting to underhand means of securing support for himself in the annual meeting.

Mr. Bergh became very indignant at those charges and surprised all his friends by the warmth of h s retort.

P. T. Barnum, who was one of the members present, interfered, and, by pouring oil upon the troubled waters, prevented the meeting from breaking up in a row.
